

HOUSEWIVES ARE URGED TO PURCHASE POTATOES

Food Department Calls Attention to Present Reasonable Price of "Spuds"

Housewives were urged by the Department of Food of the Public Safety Committee today to buy potatoes while the prices are comparatively low. Potatoes of the Pennsylvania grade are now selling in this city from forty to forty-seven cents per peck. Each peck weighs fifteen pounds. New York and western potatoes are selling at the present time from thirty-five to forty cents per peck.

Now that the maximum wholesale and retail prices have been fixed by Mr. Heinz, he has turned his attention to fish prices, and announced that a conference of wholesale fish dealers is to be called next week with the view of stabilizing the price of that commodity.

Several complaints have been received that fish dealers have been boosting their prices because of the establishment of the two meatless days a week. Halbut is said to furnish an excellent example of profiteering. The wholesale price noted yesterday was twenty cents, but some sections retailers charged almost double that price. Mr. Heinz said that the food administration planned to add fish to the price list issued by his office.

Fifteen factors in the wholesale and retail butter and egg business yesterday conferred with Mr. Heinz and made several radical rules to aid in keeping the gougers away from the family pocketbook. Mr. Heinz read a letter from a woman who lives in an outlying section who said that she had paid fifty-two cents for a pound of butter, and she did not know whether she had been exploited or not. She was familiar with the trade differentiations in the various grades.

As a result the food administration and its advisers decided to have the retailers to have cards printed which will readily give the prices of these staples to correspond with the grade marked on the official Heinz Philadelphia-Pittsburgh scales.

Mr. Heinz said he wanted it understood that this suggestion emanated from representatives of the retailers.

DISTRUST OF CARRANZA CUTS OFF CORN SUPPLY

Belief That Shipments Reach Germany Causes U. S. to Refuse Urgent Demands

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Extreme distrust of the Carranza government and dissatisfaction with that country's attitude toward the United States has caused the United States officials to refuse the urgent appeals made by Mexico for 15,000,000 bushels of corn, and only 600,000 bushels will be permitted to cross the Rio Grande.

The Carranza government has for some weeks been pleading with the United States for 15,000,000 bushels of corn, on account of the failure of the Mexican corn crop through frost.

The War Industries Board has issued a license for shipment of 600,000 bushels of corn to Mexico at once, sufficient, it is believed, to stave off starvation for a time. United States officials personally would like to grant the plea for 20,000,000 bushels, but conditions in Mexico have become quite critical within the last two months, and there is grave danger that foodstuffs will fall into the hands of bandits or dishonest officials.

Reports, more or less authentic, have reached the American officials that food supplies are being smuggled into Mexico to Germany by some corrupt and selfish Mexican officials while thousands of Mexicans are threatened with death by starvation.

American officials face a problem of performing a great humanitarian duty while serving the interests of their allies and are cheerfully watching the machinations of insidious enemies.

The fact that the United States and her allies are dependent upon Mexico for oil and ore compels the Government officials to act with the greatest caution in dealing with Mexico, especially in view of the fact that German propaganda is becoming threatening each day and every attempt is being made to stir up rebellion in Mexico and poison the minds of the Mexicans against all Germany's enemies.

NEW YEAR ASSOCIATIONS SLOW TO SEEK PERMITS

Only Three Granted for Annual Numbers' Festival During Opening Day of Issuance

Unlike former years, few representatives of New Year associations came to the office of the Superintendent of Police today to obtain permits to parade in the annual numbers' festival, the first day of the issuance of the 1918 permits. Only three were granted, two to organizations that never before have participated.

The first permit was issued to David C. Von Riche, of 236 Chestnut street, Camden, captain of the South Camden New Year's Association, which frequently has paraded in past years. The other permits were issued to William C. Schultz, 724 West Wyoming avenue, captain of the W. H. A. New Year's Association, and to E. J. Javetti, 1541 Dickinson street, captain of the Young American New Year's Association. All three are comic clubs.

HIGHER PAY DEMANDED FOR SCHOOL TEACHERS

New Jersey Official Contends State Must Adopt More Liberal Policy

TRENTON, Dec. 1.—That it is necessary to pay teachers, janitors and other employees of the schools in New Jersey larger salaries because of the increased cost of living, is one of the points brought out in the annual report of Dr. Calvin N. Kendall, commissioner of education, for the year ending June 30 last, which was submitted to the State Board of Education today.

While referring to the vastness of school operations and the necessarily great cost to the Commonwealth, Commissioner Kendall says the cost of the schools based on the number of pupils present was twenty-six cents a day, and for those children actually present this was approximately five cents an hour for each child.

It is pointed out that the cost of fifty articles of table supplies has increased 37 1/2 per cent between July 1, 1916, and June 30, 1917, and yet there are still about 500 teachers in the State who receive less than $500 a year.

The price of school supplies has increased and there also has been an increase in the cost of fuel. The opening of schoolhouses as community centers has increased to a slight degree the cost of operating schools.

The reported valuation of school properties increased during the year from $69,000,000 to $74,000,000, Commissioner Kendall shows.

In reference to the war, the commissioner asserts that "teachers and school officials of the State have responded splendidly and loyally to the demands of the war situation. There has been no far from the Department of Public Instruction knows, no evidence of disloyalty or sedition in the schools. Their support of the Government is apparently positive and patriotic."

TRAINED MEN ESSENTIAL, SAYS SECRETARY BAKER

Advices Educators to Urge Young Men to Continue Studies Unless Drafted

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—"Class exemptions of technically trained men should be 'prejudicial to the success of the selective service law,'" said Secretary of War Baker in a letter to Dr. Hollis Godfrey, of the Council of National Defense, today. The Secretary says he recognizes that the United States can ill afford to risk diminution of its supply of technically trained men if the nation's cause is to triumph.

"And so I hope," he adds, "that those who are in charge of scientific institutions will impress upon the young men the importance and desirability of continuing their studies, except to the extent that they are necessarily interrupted by a mandatory call under the selective conscription law."

WANTS U. S. TAX IMPOSED ON UNCULTURED LANDS

California Congressman Proposes New Plan to Solve Food and Finance Problems

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The solution of the food and finance problems will be found, said Representative Charles H. Randall, of California, today, in a measure he is to introduce when Congress reconvenes Monday.

"Let every nonproducing acre of arable land either grow food next year or pay a tax toward the support of the war," said Congressman Randall, who would tax every acre of vacant uncultivated land which is tillable $5, and every vacant or unplanted town lot $1.

"The result will astound the country, for ample food will be produced and billions of dollars can be raised from speculators and slackers. In Texas alone there are 162,517,857 acres of agricultural land, only 27,000,000 acres of which are under cultivation."

He was arrested while attempting to pawn jewelry which, it is alleged, was stolen recently from the Griest home.

JUDGE HARRY A. HALL, OF ELK COUNTY, IS DEAD

Heart Disease Proves Fatal to Well-Known Jurist at the Bellevue-Stratford

Judge Harry Alvan Hall, of Common Pleas Court, District No. 20, comprising Clinton, Cameron and Elk Counties, died today of heart disease at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

For the last three months Judge Hall has been confined to his bed. Seven weeks ago he was brought to Philadelphia with the intention of placing him in a hospital. However his condition had been such that it was found impossible to move him from the hotel. His wife, his sister, Miss Mary Hall, the only surviving brother or sister, and his niece, Mrs. Vinton Liddell, were at his bedside.

He was born in Karthous, Clearfield County, Pa., October 7, 1861. He was the son of Benjamin MacDowell and Susan Geary Hall. He took the degree of A.B. at Yale in 1879, and in 1881 the degree of LL.B. at the same university. Upon graduation he began the practice of law at Ridgway, Elk County, and later succeeded to the practice of his brother, J. K. P. Hall, who was also a lawyer.

In 1886 he married Miss Curran McNairy, of Nashville, Tenn., at Louisville, Ky. He was a member of the State Senate from 1890 to 1893, and was United States District Attorney for the Western District of Pennsylvania from 1893 to 1897. He had been presiding Judge of the Twenty-fifth District of Pennsylvania, Court of Common Pleas, since 1907. He was elected on the Democratic and Lincoln party tickets. He had always been a staunch Democrat.

He served as captain of Company H, Sixteenth Regiment, Pennsylvania National Guard, in the Spanish War. He was promoted to the rank of major for gallantry at the battle of Ocampo, P. R., on August 9, 1904. He was appointed by General Miles to carry the Spanish colors, captured in this battle, to President McKinley. He was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention in 1892, 1894 and 1896, and was formerly general counsel in this country for the Italian and Austro-Hungarian Governments. In recognition of his services he was awarded the Cross of Francis Joseph, the then Austrian ruler, in 1905.

Judge Hall, on invitation from Judge Sulzberger, presided on the Philadelphia bench at the time of the famous Shoups case in 1913. Walter Shoups, an employee of the Merchants' Union Trust Company, absconded with $1,400,000 in cash and securities from the safe deposit vault of George Burnham, Jr. He was later traced to Germany. From this point he carried on negotiations through his wife. He was acquitted by Judge Hall, on agreement with District Attorney Botwin, the Merchants' Union Trust Company and George Burnham, Jr., upon making restitution. Judge Hall defended this "immunity bath" several months later at a banquet of the Clover Club following severe criticism.

Judge Hall was a prominent member of the Protestant Episcopal church, having been senior warden and judge of the ecclesiastical court of Erie for some years. He was also a member of the standing committee of the board of trustees and a deputy to the general convention in 1913.

AN EXTENSIVE TRAVELER

He was a fellow of the American Geographical Society, of the American Bar Association of the Bar of the City of Philadelphia, of which he was president of the Archeological Society; of the Military Service Institute, and of the Naval and Military Order of the Spanish-American War, of which he was commander-in-chief. He had been an extensive traveler in the principal countries of the world.

He was also a member of the following clubs: The Yale Club, the Army and Navy Club, the Lambs' Club, the Lawyers' Club, the Manhattan Club, of New York; the Art Club, the Penn Club, the Pen and Pencil Club, the Gun Club, the Club of the Duquesne Club, the Raquet Club, the University Club, the Press Club, the Country Club, the Crucible Club, the Buffalo Club and the Erie Club. He was a member of the "Rights of Riparian Owners in the Civilization Waters of the United States."

Since the entry of the United States into the war he had been actively interested in Red Cross work in western Pennsylvania. He was local chairman in Erie and in the Pennsylvania Committee of Public Safety. He was not a candidate for another term in the Court of Common Pleas at the recent election.

The only surviving member of his generation of the family is Miss Mary Hall. He leaves no children. He was one of seven children, all prominent in affairs of the State.

EXHIBITION OF NEW BOOKS IS OPENED WITH DINNER

Mrs. Joseph Pennell Is Guest of Honor at Art Alliance Literary Show

An exhibition of books, manuscripts and original drawings of illustrations to continue for two weeks was opened at the Art Alliance, 1823 Walnut street, last night. The exhibition is arranged by the literary departments of the Public Ledger and the Evening Ledger, in co-operation with a special committee on literary arts of the Art Alliance.

The committee is Mrs. Cornelius Stevenson, other associates are John B. McMaster, Morris Jastrow, H. H. Furness, Jr., Agnes Reppel, Owen Wister, Harrison S. Morris, Dr. Felix Schelling, John Ashurst, George Gibbs and George W. Douglas.

A dinner in honor of Mrs. Joseph Pennell preceded an inspection of the exhibits and the speaking with Dr. George Woodward, president of the Art Alliance, at the head of the table. When the guests assembled in the large room at the right of the main hall Mrs. Stevenson, after a brief speech in which she said that the war seemed to have had a depressing effect on the imagination of fiction writers, introduced Dr. Felix Schelling. He read a witty and illuminating paper on books and their resemblance to human beings. He was followed by Mrs. Pennell, who urged consideration of the artistic side of bookmaking, not from the bibliophile's point of view, but from the point of view of the person who likes to have a book appear in a suitable dress.

Dr. Woodward then welcomed the exhibit to the house of the Art Alliance and remarked that in spite of the war the people were and should be interested in things of the spirit.

The exhibition is open to the public. It includes the most notable new books of the year, and should be interesting to all who find pleasure in reading.

BOARD GRANTS REHEARING IN ANTHRAX LITIGATION

State Compensation Body Seeks Further Evidence as to Cause and Workings of Disease

HARRISBURG, Dec. 1.—Rehearing has been granted by the State Compensation Board in the case of Howard vs. Howard Company, of Corry, in order that the board may go fully into the cause of anthrax, of which the claimant died. The board feels that before a ruling can be made in this it must know more fully "how far the invasion of the germ of anthrax can be considered an accident suffered in the course of employment."

Sudden exposure to poisonous gases, frost bite, heat prostration, lightning and dermatus have been made subjects for compensation and the board now decides the time has come when it must go further into such technical subjects as the anthrax germ and quotes court decisions of this and other States to support its position.

SEGAL READY TO SOLVE THE SUGAR SITUATION

Former High Financier Breaks the Glad Tidings Over Long-Distance Telephone

Adolph Segal, once the owner of the Hotel Maletic, Broad street and Girard avenue, whose financial operations caused a nervous breakdown a few years ago and caused him to be removed to the State Hospital for the Insane, at Norristown, Pa., is in New York today seeking capital for the construction of a large sugar refining plant in South Wilmington, Del.

Mr. Segal, who is stopping at the Holland House, New York, told the Evening Ledger over the long-distance telephone that he was trying to solve the sugar shortage in Philadelphia and vicinity. He added that his plans contemplated the erection of a sugar-refining plant with a capacity of 300,000 barrels of sugar daily. Mr. Segal was reminded that all the refineries in North America have a daily output of only 18,000 tons.

"I should worry about that," replied Segal.

"And there won't be any company, either, when we get started," said Segal. "I will be the whole company. I won't say any more until I get back to Philadelphia. I'll be back in Philadelphia next Monday. By the way, do you know if there are any newspapers for sale in Philadelphia? I don't mean copies of newspapers, I am thinking of buying several newspaper plants."
